

Students Watch Different TV Shows

By Lauren Mackey

Almost all kids share the opinion that T.V is great, but most do not share the opinion of what show is their favorite.

Pre-1ster Patrick Marta says that he loves to watch the Fox channel on Saturday mornings, which shows episodes like Yu-gi-oh, Ultraman, and Kirby, among others.

Oliver Darwish, a 1st grader, likes to watch Hey Arnold, which is a show about a boy in elementary school and his friends. He thinks it's funny, and his older brother Alex even said that Oliver falls down on the ground laughing sometimes.

Stephanie Lewis, a 2nd grader, likes to sing along to the Music Show, which shows funny songs that she really enjoys.

Fourth graders Alivia Owyong and Kathleen Schiavenza like to watch Even Stevens, a show on the Disney Channel about two completely different siblings. Alivia likes Ren, the older sister, because she can relate to her since they are both smart and bright. Both girls like the show because it is entertaining and exciting.

Harris Rudman, a 5th grader, likes the show Malcolm in the Middle because it has "really good actors, is funny, and in some ways resembles my family." He says it resembles his family because both families are crazy and funny.

Britta Swanson, a 6th grader, says she likes Friends because "it is really, really funny." Her favorite character is Phoebe because she is extremely funny and has the best lines. Phoebe is also really weird and crazy like Britta, as her classmates well know.

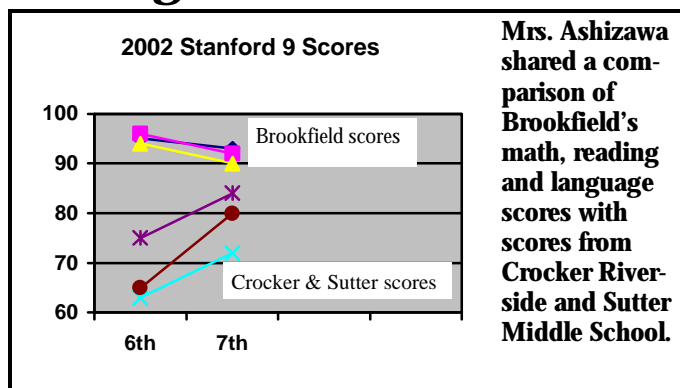

Middle School Offerings Described

6th grader Britta Swanson, thought that the meeting was successful because the teachers presented their material very well. But he said there was some disappointment at the announcement that the math teacher was leaving.

Mr. Swanson liked listening to Mr. Branscombe the most because he didn't realize how much the students in the computer class were learning. He also liked seeing how enthusiastic the teachers are about teaching.

In addition, Mr. Swanson said he thought that it was interesting to hear the perspectives of the graduates, who all talked about how they were having a much easier time at high school and could go to advanced classes

because of Brookfield.

Mrs. Ashizawa wants to be able to hold this meeting in future years because she believes that the parents really appreciated it.

Book Fair popular with students of all ages

She also liked it because there were games. She has read some of the humorous books she got already and really enjoyed them. Chaney also got a poem book that has come in handy for monthly declamations.

In addition, Chaney got an atlas for her teacher, which was good because her class was learning about atlases and her teacher thought the book would be useful.

Maura McGuire from the 6th grade said that the book fair was okay because they had a good amount of book for all ages. But one thing she didn't like was that it ran out of some stock. She bought a cookbook, which she enjoyed, and she made a dish out if it called Mango Fool.

Mieke Rosecrans from the 1st grade said that she liked the books. She got a Scooby Doo book, an art book, and a Wild Thornberry joke book. She liked all three.
