- Choose one more book at your level you've been wanting to read.

Try to follow this simple form of annotation for all 3 books:

- Read with a pencil or a single highlighter.
- If you see a word you do not understand, circle it.
- If you see a particularly good piece of imagery or are introduced to a new character, underline or highlight it.
  - Write a note in the margin about why you underlined it.
  - If you don't want to write in your book, write on post-it notes.
- At the end of the chapter, list (in the book or in a notebook):
  - Important events from the chapter
  - New characters introduced
  - Any significant themes
  - One discussion question you have about the chapter.
